

TRIGGER WARNING

sarah rupp radicalpaper.

tumblr.
com

10
 11
 12
 13
 14
 15
 16
 17
 18
 19 20
 21
 22
 23
 24
 25
 26
 27
 28
 29
 30
 31
 32
 33
 34
 35
 36
 37
 38
 39
 40
 41
 42
 43
 44
 45
 46
 47
 48
 49
 50
 51
 52
 53
 54
 55
 56
 57
 58
 59
 60
 61
 62
 63
 64
 65
 66
 67
 68
 69
 70
 71
 72
 73
 74
 75
 76
 77
 78
 79
 80
 81
 82
 83
 84
 85
 86
 87
 88
 89
 90
 91
 92
 93
 94
 95
 96
 97
 98
 99
 100
 101
 102
 103
 104
 105
 106
 107
 108
 109
 110
 111
 112
 113
 114
 115
 116
 117
 118
 119
 120
 121
 122
 123
 124
 125
 126
 127
 128
 129
 130
 131
 132
 133
 134
 135
 136
 137
 138
 139
 140
 141
 142
 143
 144
 145
 146
 147
 148
 149
 150
 151
 152
 153
 154
 155
 156
 157
 158
 159
 160
 161
 162
 163
 164
 165
 166
 167
 168
 169
 170
 171
 172
 173
 174
 175
 176
 177
 178
 179
 180
 181
 182
 183
 184
 185
 186
 187
 188
 189
 190
 191
 192
 193
 194
 195
 196
 197
 198
 199
 200
 201
 202
 203
 204
 205
 206
 207
 208
 209
 210
 211
 212
 213
 214
 215
 216
 217
 218
 219
 220
 221
 222
 223
 224
 225
 226
 227
 228
 229
 230
 231
 232
 233
 234
 235
 236
 237
 238
 239
 240
 241
 242
 243
 244
 245
 246
 247
 248
 249
 250
 251
 252
 253
 254
 255
 256
 257
 258
 259
 260
 261
 262
 263
 264
 265
 266
 267
 268
 269
 270
 271
 272
 273
 274
 275
 276
 277
 278
 279
 280
 281
 282
 283
 284
 285
 286
 287
 288
 289
 290
 291
 292
 293
 294
 295
 296
 297
 298
 299
 300
 301
 302
 303
 304
 305
 306
 307
 308
 309
 310
 311
 312
 313
 314
 315
 316
 317
 318
 319
 320
 321
 322
 323
 324
 325
 326
 327
 328
 329
 330
 331
 332
 333
 334
 335
 336
 337
 338
 339
 340
 341
 342
 343
 344
 345
 346
 347
 348
 349
 350
 351
 352
 353
 354
 355
 356
 357
 358
 359
 360
 361
 362
 363
 364 365
 366
 367
 368
 369
 370
 371
 372
 373
 374
 375
 376
 377
 378
 379
 380
 381
 382
 383
 384
 385
 386
 387
 388
 389
 390
 391
 392
 393
 394
 395
 396
 397
 398
 399
 400
 401
 402
 403
 404
 405
 406
 407
 408
 409
 410
 411
 412
 413
 414
 415
 416
 417
 418
 419
 420
 421
 422
 423
 424
 425
 426
 427
 428
 429
 430
 431
 432
 433
 434
 435
 436
 437
 438
 439
 440
 441
 442
 443
 444
 445
 446
 447
 448
 449
 450
 451
 452
 453
 454
 455
 456
 457
 458
 459
 460
 461
 462
 463
 464
 465
 466
 467
 468
 469
 470
 471
 472
 473
 474
 475
 476
 477
 478
 479
 480
 481
 482
 483
 484
 485
 486
 487
 488
 489
 490
 491
 492
 493
 494
 495
 496
 497
 498
 499
 500
 501 502
 503
 504
 505
 506
 507
 508
 509
 510
 511
 512
 513
 514
 515
 516
 517
 518
 519
 520
 521
 522
 523
 524
 525
 526
 527
 528
 52

Handguns

I have suicidal tendencies. I do DBT for it. I take Lexapro, Wellbutrin, Klonopin, and Adderall every day, like a cyborg. I went to a psych ward, once. My suicide note was about how existentially devastating the idea of having to work every day until I die was for me. How I was lonely. How I was sorry. How I was done.

So I can't own a gun, because my history of mental health issues would prevent me from buying one legally, even in a state as lax as Virginia, where you are more likely to get carded when you're buying cigarettes than when you're buying a revolver. And I probably shouldn't own a gun. My grandparent shot himself in the head in the John Marshall Hotel, which I can see the sign for from this window. My cousin wrote the name of the man he secretly loved on his mirror before he shot himself in Rocky Mount. A childhood friend ran out of Adderall while his parents were divorcing and he shot himself, too. But I want a gun.

Machine-guns

I want a gun because I'm queer, and I look queer. I want a gun because I am out of the closet. I want a gun because I'm a puntable five feet tall, heavily tattooed, and a woman. I want a gun because I spend every Saturday at the lesbian bar, one that looks eerily like Pulse, except our outdoor courtyard has a beach volleyball court. I want a gun because I've been raped by a man. I want a gun because I've been stalked by a man. I want a gun because my friend was stabbed to death by a man. I want a gun because I've been followed home by male strangers - not once, but twice. I want a gun because one day I think all of my friends and I are going to need guns when we defend our future trailer park commune from the corn warlords of the apocalypse. I want a gun because I kind of miss shooting beer bottles in the deserted mall. And I know capitalism, and I know myself: malls and beer cans will only get emptier and emptier.

Automatic rifles

I want a gun because men have guns and men are a threat to my safety. I want a gun because Virginia, where I live, is the site of the second largest mass shooting in modern US history. I want a gun because I am a known antifa organizer in a city that is not completely down with that. I want a gun because my very existence antagonizes the fascists here, who would hate me even if I didn't do work explicitly against them. I want a gun because you know those assholes have a shit ton of guns. A local anarcho-capitalist, Kal Molinet, open carried an assault weapon to the vigil here in Richmond for the Orlando shooting. Derrick Davis from the fascist Traditionalist Worker Party carried a gun while livestreaming our anti-Trump march here. That all makes me want a gun more than ever. I want a gun for when I see a cop pull a gun on a black man again. I want a gun because my upstairs neighbors are football playing bros and they have guns. I want a gun because I hope one day we all have a Take Your Gun to Work Day and then there would be no more bosses. That would solve one part of my suicide note.

But I can't buy a gun. Someone should buy me a gun.

meric...agedly is the story of man, Clyde Gufrin ursuit of success. Of ever, the novel rep rave society whose val try ambitions and sealing fa of the harsh realities side of the Americ ind power, vivid in unceasing in its r y stands as the super arks in the words an giants, one of
had. As Mr. Ho e American Trage
y moved and shak
rative, its profou dredging up of the ever, just befor

We often see the media portray mass shooters as mentally ill, but that's only true if you consider masculinity a mental illness. The attack in Orlando wasn't galvanized by anything other than homophobia. And you know what sucks? Queer people are four times more likely to make a suicide attempt than straight people. Which means queer people who have struggled to stay alive cannot own guns in most states. There is also incessant talk by media pundits of allowing the FBI to deprive anyone on watch lists of the right to buy firearms. Which means a whole lot of our friends won't be able to buy guns legally.

Submachine-guns

Women and teenage girls should be armed. In the 70s, there were a string of cases where feminists shot men in self-defense. Yvonne Wanrow, a Native American woman, shot a man who molested her son. Inez Garcia was a Latina woman who shot her rapist. Dessie Woods was a black woman in Georgia who shot a man who tried to rape her and her friend while they were hitchhiking. More recently, a sex worker named Heather in West Virginia shot a man in self-defense, and he ended up being the serial killer Neal Falls. And then of course, there is the case of Marissa Alexander, who shot her husband in self-defense in 2012.

A few days after the homophobic massacre at Pulse Nightclub in Orlando, MSNBC and Fox dropped coverage of the shooting in favor of picking up the story of the little boy who was killed by an alligator at Disney World. MSNBC even went so far as to say that that particular tragedy was on the same level of the Pulse shooting. But let me get something "straight": the news equates the life of one dead boy to the lives of 49 queer people because America values children and reproductive futurity above the lives of those who are queer. If you don't assimilate, you are one-forty ninth as important as a young American boy.

RY MAN HAS HIS AVORITE TOOL.

2 THE ARRIVAL OF THE GUN

The first picture of the gun shows it is shaped like a vase

as men study ballistics

While every care has been taken to ensure that the material appearing in this book is factually accurate, it is probable that in some cases slight alterations might ultimately be found necessary—particularly with the appearance on the market of new types of weapons. The authors and the editor would therefore be pleased to hear of any such amendments which have escaped their notice or which have been announced after Military Small Arms had gone to press. Please write care of the publishers (Arms and Armour Press, 16 Hampstead High Street, London NW3 1PR, England); all aid will be gratefully acknowledged.

Guns

s, discuss the meaning of labor, (c) capital, (d) land.

Any standing army – including the police – are a threat to our personal liberties. This is a core tenet of Marxism. Sometimes I think about the trial of Louise Michel in the Paris Commune, which you can find a transcript of on Commune Edition's website. The Paris Commune was armed and prepared for self-defense; women led different brigades on the barricades, including Michel. During her trial, the judge asked Michel why she thought she was on trial, to which she responded: "All it takes is a black flag and a broomstick."

Queer people, women, people of color, anarchists, and communists will always be on trial in capitalism. Any visible markers of queerness or antagonistic politics – be they ontological or spatial – put the lives of queers in jeopardy. We all have our own black flags or broomsticks. We are not safe in our bodies, in our homes, in our clubs, in our schools, in our streets. My friend once joked that my Rosa Luxemburg tattoo will one day be cheese grated off my body by reactionaries. Luxemburg, by the way, was also shot to death by fascists. But she died fighting, and so should we. I'll see you on the barricades, in the glass-covered, bloodstained streets.

radical paper press & 2017